

Cleaning up

We've achieved a lot in the past six months. We want and need to keep you informed.

A world's first...

As of now – Alliance Cleaning is the world's first carbon neutral cleaning service Provider – this means we are delivering on our responsibilities to protect our planet.

It's more than that though, most of our clients and prospects think what we are doing on sustainability is fantastic, we have won work because of it, and we want to make them aware of this latest achievement. So please help us to spread the word.

We have achieved this by doing two things – working to reduce our carbon emissions and then offsetting the rest.

What makes us different from others is that we've added up all our carbon from the fuel burned in our vehicles, from the electricity in our offices and from the cleaning products too. We've even counted the electricity that we use to run the vacuums and the water we use to clean our customers' sites. It is this much wider responsibility that means it is the service that is carbon neutral. We are proud to say that we are the first in the world.

For more information you can talk to Cameron Rees

Alliance Cleaning: Transforming working environments...

Let's go ISO.

We are currently working towards achieving ISO 14001 – the international standard for environmental management systems.

So that Alliance Cleaning can continually improve our environmental performance and so that we can demonstrate this to you and to our customers, we are developing a simple management system.

This will help in our proposals, in the way we deliver our cleaning service, and gain us recognition for what we've achieved already and what plan to achieve in the future.

We hope to be ready for external certification towards the end of the year and we'll keep you posted on progress.

For more information on this you can talk to Arzu Ali or Damian Ashworth-Brown

Did you know? – you can follow Alliance Cleaning on Twitter @AllianceClean